A FIEND'S ACT.

An Infuriated Woman Hurls a Lighted Lamp at the Head of Her Lover.

It Strikes Him, is Shattered to Pieces and He is Covered With Blazing Oil.

The Man Frightfully Burned About the Head and Breast-His Condition Serious.

Mrs. Con Murphy, alias Lizzie Anderson, alias Sullivan, is in jail for a fiendish assault on her lover, Joe Anderson, who lies at St. Peter's hospital in a precarious condition. The gentle Lizzie's offense is attempted murder. Sunday night, about midnight, she threw a lighted lamp at Anderson. The lamp struck him just over the right ear. The lamp was shattered to pieces and the unfortunate man saturated with oil, which took fire. Before it could be extinguished Anderson was frightfully burned about the head and body. The lower portion of his right ear was burned off and his right arm and breast burned to off and his right arm and breast burned to a crisp.

The particulars of the affair as far as obtainable, are somewhat mixed. It seems that Lizzie visited the Hot Springs Sunday afternoon in company with a man whose attentions were very distasteful to Anderson. Lizzie came home shortly after dusk pretty well loaded with beer. Anderson was in front of her residence No. 206 Bridge street, and when she alighted from the buggy it is alleged he knocked her down and otherwise maltreated her. She escaped from him and went into the house, Anderson following her. When is Lizzie's room a bitter quarrel ensued in which both parties indulged in invective obscenity, profanity and billingsgate, neither one getting the better of the other.

Lizzie grew tired of the word warfare and hurled the lamp with the effects stated. It is asserted that when Anderson was ablaze, blinded with the flames, suffering excruciating agony and running wildly around the room, the gentle Lizzie stood looking on laughing hilariously at her victim's struggles. She said it reminded her of a chicken with its head off. Anderson found the bed and muffling himself in the clothes succeeded in smothering out the flames. By this time some of the occupants of the house ran into the room and relieved the wounded man to the best of their ability. A hack was procured and Anderson placed in it to be taken to the hospital. Just at this time Sergeant Nicholson arrived and placed Lizzie under arrest.

When at the station house, Lizzie exhibi-

olson arrived and placed Lizzie under arrest.

When at the station house, Lizzie exhibited a burnt arm and told a queer story. She said that Anderson was jealous and accused her of having a lover at Hot Springs. She went to the springs in the afternoon and when she returned found Anderson waiting for her. As soon as she alighted from the carriage he knocked her down. They entered the room and he knocked her down again. While she was lying on the floor he threw the lamp at her, striking her upon the shoulder, setting her afire; seeing what he had done he attempted to extinguish the flames, caught afire himself, and she smothered out the flames with the bed clothes. Her story is so gauzy that no credence is placed in it. Besides, while on her way to jail Lizzie acknowledged to the sergeant that she threw the lamp.

Lizzie Anderson, as she is now known, is a well known hard character. She is a large, muscular woman, and her puglistic abilities as a slugger have earned for her on the row the soubriquet of Sullivan. About a year ago she got into an altercation with a girl named Nelile Lynch, and drawing a knife slashed her across the face disfiguring her for life. She was not prosecuted for this offense and escaped prosecuted for this offense and escaped face disfiguring her for life. She was not prosecuted for this offense and escaped justice. She came to Montana several years ago, and fell in with the desperado Con Murphy who was lynched for his numerous crimes and married him. She needed a man of Murphy's stripe to keep her in subjection, and while she lived with him was peaceable because she had to be. But when Con met his deserts and she had ceased her mourning which did not require much time, she assumed her old character of tough and the name of Ida Hill. She was feared by the women of her class, whom she terrorized at times by her furious outbreaks of temper. She met Anderson about three years ago and has been living with him since that time. Anderson is an old timer. In early days he drove stage for Glimer & Salisbury. For some time he drove an express waxon for the Helena Cab company, but of late has been employed as a teamster for Stewart, successor of the firm of King & Johnson. It was understood last night that Anderson had expressed a desire to see his woman, but the request was not granted. She will have a hearing in a day or two.

HE IS A FORGER.

A Petty Larceny Thief Held on a More Serious Charge.

Harry Maxwell was arrested Saturday night for stealing a pair of shoes from a Main street store. Yesterday it was found that a more serious charge, forgery, has been lodged against him. He will have a preliminary examination in a day or two. Maxwell was around the Helena Lumber company's yards Saturday last and notic ing a coat hanging in a pile of lumber went through the pockets. He found two checks payable to N. P. Allen, one for $13 50, the other for a small amount, and appropriated them to his own use. Before stealing the shoes he went into the Atlantic garden and induced the proprietor, John Steinbrenner, to cash the largest check for him, he signing Mr. Allen's name when condersing it him, he signing Mr. Allen's name when endorsing it.

Allen discovered his loss Saturday afternoon and notified the police, who soon found the checks, but already had the thief in charge. Mr. Allen notified the bank yesterday of the loss of the checks and payment was stopped. Mr. Steinbrenner will be the loser. Maxwell, it is claimed, is an old-time thief and has served several sentences for larceny. He stands an excellent chance of going to the penitentiary.

Helena's Inauguration Ball.

While the Helena inauguration ball was not so largely attended as the ball at Washington last night, it is doubtful whether the people in the effete east enjoyed themselves any more than the two hundred couples who danced at Assembly hall. The ball was conducted under the auspices of the A. O. U. W., Knights of Pythias, Select Knights A. O. U. W., Order of the Iron Hall and Knights of Labor. Yaeger's orchestra furnished the music, which was as fine as ever heard in the city.

A Big Real Estate Ccal.

Arthur P. Curtin, the well known furniture dealer, purchased from T. C. Power niture n yesterday a lot on Grand street for which he paid $21,250. The lot belonged to T. C. Power and the John Sweeney estate. It has a frontage of 169 feet and runs through to Breckenridge street. Power's ware-house is now on the lot, but it is Mr. Curtin's intention to tear down the warehouse and build a five story block which he hopes to complete by next fail.
